Panthera is a genus within the Felidae family that was named and first described by the German naturalist Oken in 1816. The British taxonomist Pocock revised the classification of this genus in 1916 as comprising the species lion, tiger, jaguar, and leopard on the basis of cranial features. Results of genetic analysis indicate that the snow ...

The Hello World Collection "Hello World" is the first program one usually writes when learning a new programming language. Having first been mentioned in Brian Kernighan's tutorial to the B programming language, it became widely known through Kernighan & Ritchie's 1978 book that introduced "The C Programming Language", where it read like this:
